MEN in Ipswich may want to brush up on their basketball knowledge with the Gold Coast Titans cheerleaders visiting the city on Saturday night for a special performance.

The cheerleaders, led by Ipswich girl Megan McInally, will entertain the crowd at the Ipswich Force match against Toowoomba Mountaineers.

The game is a unique event to celebrate the 100-plus volunteers who helped rescue the club-owned basketball stadium after it was swallowed in January's flood.

The night will also unveil the new stadium sponsor, Cotton On, who contributed $200,000 to rebuilding the wrecked timber floors of the stadium.

"I've been family friends with members of the Ipswich Force for years and it's the least the girls and I can do to help them after the flood," Ms McInally said.

The Ipswich Force feared they would rack up a mountain of debt in order to resurrect the stadium, which had eight feet of water inside it at the height of the flood.

But the donation from Cotton On, who are flying staff from across the country for the event, ensured a loan was not needed.

Gold Coast Titans' cheerleaders will be supporting Ipswich Force this weekend.
